

SUSAN ECK

Songwriting

Susan's inspiration for music was discovered by her music teacher during her grade school days, as was her natural ability and interest in art. Strongly influenced by her parents to obtain her business degree and secure a job in the business sector, she placed her dreams on hold until she completed her formal education. For years her business, and teaching career flourished and that was enough. Fortunately, she discovered this allowed her creative side an outlet as she did product/concept development while working for a major retail chain, and then later as a Professor while doing some course development at a major community college in Ontario. However, her passion for music never left her and she wrote lyrics until she had developed enough material to begin to compose the music for her lyrics.

Today Susan is a full-time independent artist with a link to "Canadian Indie Music". For more information go to: <http://www.overhear.com/>

Susan won first place awards for her song writing in Nashville (USA) and various other awards. She writes for the pure pleasure and not profit. With hundreds of musical compositions to her credit, she finds it hard to narrow down her broad interest and range that includes: Country, Pop, New Age, Opera, Blues, and Rock-Jazz. Her primary focus is on musical compositions that allow the listener to feel joy, or the ability to escape reality by letting their minds drift into her musical fantasy world.

Her commitment to music led to the composition and production of ten music CDs over the past 10 years.

Susan continues to compose though most days her daily challenge is to cope with chronic pain due to an illness. However, she finds that intense level of concentration required both composing and writing music aids in decreasing her pain level. Today her only desire is to be able to continue to share her music with you.